

Writer N.O. Block is a lifelong author of both poetry and fiction. He started writing at the age of eight to relieve the boredom he found at his sibling's hockey and ringette games, as he had no physical skills of the sporting variety. He writes and reads daily, his preferred writing styles include murder, mayhem and mystery. He has been published in Voices since 1999. He is married to R.U. Loverly, the romance writer for Avon Books and states they will never publish a book together because their styles are diametrical opposed.